The secretary's offer has resulted in a material increase of the national bank circulation, although the exact amount cannot be definitely determined, as several elements other than the refunding of the old threes and fours necessarily enter into the calculation. CARDINALS ENTER THEIR CELLS.

Incidents of the Opening of the Conclave-The Ceremonies.

ROME, July 31 .- By 5 o'clock this afternoon all the cardinals had arrived at the Vatican and had gone to their cells. The conclave has been duly formed and its members are now shut out from the outer world. Everything is prepared for to-mor-

Shortly after 4 o'clock the cardinals began to appear on St. Peter's plazza, where ing inquired into by the grand jury and a small crowd watched interestedly and that the acts of another former high official raised their hats as the princes of the church passed into the rear entrance of the Vatican. With each cardinal were conclavists and the servants who will attend his wants during the conclave. Some had bags in the carriages with them, though most of the baggage had been sent on beforehand. The majority of the cardinals contented themselves with taking portmanteaus and handbags. At the Vatican doors the Swiss Guards kept back the curious crowd, among whom were many priests. Photographers vigorously snapped the occupants of the black carriages prior to their entrance to what one cardinal called

About 4:40 p. m. the carriages drove up in rapid succession until there was a long line of vehicles waiting. All the cardinals who were known to the people, such as Gotti, Serafino Vannutelli, Agliardi, Satolli and Martinelli, received cordial greetings from the spectators. Cardinal Gibbons passed practically unnoticed. Under the colhealth as a result of his cruise along diers were drawn up, but they had nothing to do, a handful of gendarmes present berive was Mazzary, the primate of Hungary, before 5 o'clock.

> CONCLAVE TO BE SHORT. nto the conclave of each cardinal occurred and they were soon settled in their new quarters which, it is understood, each of the princes of the church has finally decided shall be for as short a time as possible as undoubtedly the discomfort will be very VAST SUM IS INVOLVED great. It is almost impossible to describe the confusion at the Vatican, each cardinal being attended in addition to his conclavist and servants by some friends, relatives and followers, to whom he gave his last instructions, besides minor prelates of all grades, newspaper men and artists, to say nothing of the people attracted to the scene by curiosity. Such was the babel of voices that the Vatican officials, unaccustomed to such scenes, showed the utmost bewilderment, Cardinal Lecot completely lost himself and was eventually found by his conclavist who, having missed him, discovered him wandering in some unused rooms on the floor above the apartments set apart for the conclave.

At 5:50 p. m., however, all the cardinals had been assembled there and, two by two, they moved in procession to the Sistine Chapel, preceded by a cross which was held aloft by a minor prelate and accompanied had all assembled the marshal of the conclave, Prince Chigi-Albani, who was an imposing figure in full court costume, knelt and took the following oath:

"I. Mario, Prince Chigi-Albani, perpetual the surveillance of the apostolic palace, promise and swear that I will be faithful to the Sacred College of the most eminent and most reverend cardinals of the holy church, that with the greatest diligence election of a Roman Pontiff. To this, God

OPERATIONS in pleasing confusion, the cardinals, each escorted by the guard assigned to him, WITNESSES went to their respective "cells" or apartments. Some of the venerable prelates such as Cardinals Mocenni (who was born in 1823), Cretoni (born 1833) and Langenieux (born 1824) were so exhausted that they had to be supported by the noble guard it attendance on them. In spite of this there was still no rest for the cardinals, as they each held an animated reception of their friends, relatives and followers, who surrounded the princes of the church, giving them advice, warnings and recommendations, all talking together at the top of their voices and crowding about the cardinals to such an extent that one of the latter was seen to cover his ears with his hands, positively refusing to hear any more advice, accompanying his action with a gesture

dinal Oreglia, had been performing another ceremony in the Sistine Chapel with the aid of the subdean of the sacred college, Cardinal Serafino Vannuetelli. Seating themselves in two immense chairs, with their backs to the altar, and flanked by Swiss Guards, the two cardinals administered the oaths to the conclavists, who advanced singly, knelt, and swore not to reveal anything which they might hear in the conclave and to put no obstacles in the elecover $100,000, so that the total will approxition of a new Pope. The conclavists then kissed the cardinals' hands and retired, to be followed by others, and so on until the conclavists had been sworn.

Cardinals Oreglia and Vannuetelli then passed to the famous loggia Raphael, where the same formula was followed with all the employes of the cardinals who were about be shut up in conclave. Then suddenly, in the midst of a hubbub of voices, the to many, welcome words "Exit omnes" rang out in the sonorous voice of the marshal of the conclave and were repeated by his assistants, who emphasized the command to leave the apartments by ringing a great bell, which, for the moment, produced complete silence, but which in reality caused more noise than ever in the Vatican, for the great throng soon made a general move towards the doors and the sound of leavetakings echoed through the air until the last of the visitors disappeared through the great doors of the Sala Regia, which was the only one not walled up.

The tired cardinals were then left alone in their confined quarters, but at least in peace. The Swiss Guards were most active. They saw that every person not entitled to remain had lest the precincts, and when all was quiet the marshal of the conclave, outside, and the camerlengo, inside, simultaneously locked the heavy door and also of closing the door, so that hereafter the world may speculate on the events going on in the conclave, but no one, at least, WASHINGTON, July 31.-Rural free de- | with any positiveness what transpires. ivery will be established at Tunnelton, The camerlengo had still one other funccardinals deputed for that office and with lengo made the rounds of all the apart-for some time longer, each visitor being desirous of telling his neighbor who he was sure would be elected Pope. But by the exercise of considerable tact the apostolic palace was gradually cleared, and with the fall of night the accustomed calm reigned over the Vatican.

WEAPONS DRAWN ON THOSE WHO TESTIFIED IN FEUD CASES.

Testimony of Relatives of J. B. Marcum, Who Was Assassinated at Jackson, Ky.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., July 31.-Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd surprised all today again by the introduction of new witnesses in the case against Curtis Jett and Thomas White for the murder of Marcum.

When court convened in the afternoon Judge Osborne sent the jury to its room and stated that he had heard that weapons had been drawn on witnesses on the street and he wanted any one having information regarding such incidents to report the same Marcum's father-in-law and his two sisters were among the witnesses to-day. Mr. Hurst, the father-in-law, testified that Jett came to him the afternoon of the murder and wanted to talk with him. White was with Jett at all times on the three occasions that they met after the death of Marcum. Hurst testified that members of the family knew of a conspiracy to murder Marcum for over a year before his death. Mrs. Hord, a sister of J. B. Marcum, testified that when her brother came into her house on the Sunday afternoon preceding his murder both Jett and White followed him into the house and walked about in the different rooms of her home. She finally insisted that they leave, and they did so. Mrs. Mary Johnson, another sister of Marcum, testified that armed men were frequently seen about the house where her brother lived. She had lived at her brother's home for a year previous to his murder, and the family was frequently warned that Marcum was to be murdered. She testified that she saw Thomas White and three other men in a stone quarry about three hundred yards from her brother's house, that her brother intended taking a train and sent her to see if any one was lying in wait for him. When she returned and told her brother simultaneously registered the official act stone quarry he did not go to the depot. She testified that she saw both Jett and White after her brother was killed and that she asked Jett directly about it it is so believed in the Vatican, will know and accused him of it and that he replied: "Hargis's money killed him, but I fired the shot." Mrs. Johnson testified that she also accused him of helping to kill her brother, to which he replied: "Go and ask Ewen who killed him. He saw who did it and will tell you he knows who did it.'

The cross-examination of Mrs. Johnson was lengthy and severe, but she did not become enraged and break down on the witness stand as at the former trial at The testimony of other witnesses was regarding Jett and White near the side door of the Jackson courthouse before the shooting and the corroboration of Ewen's testimony as to the location of different persons after the shooting.

There is considerable excitement here to-night mong the witnesses and others from Breathitt county who are interested in the trials.
